THE END OF THE CENTURY.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO MAKE ITS TIME OF CLOSING CLEAR.

SPREAD OF THE QUESTION TO DECADES—THE FALLIBILITY OF ENCYCLOPEDIAS.

Pinehurst, Minn., Dec. 19, 1900.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: I have just read the article in The Tri-Weekly Tribune of the 14th inst. about the new century—when it begins. I am glad to see that you have taken up the matter, and something about the manner which they begin. I have been entangled in some disputes about that matter myself, and last night, in fact, I went to bed with the question unsettled. I suppose we have seen plenty of arguments about the matter, but I have not seen them. I begin January 1, 1901, and I am ready to defend my self on that side. These writers all have an air of confidence in the subject which leaves an air of confidence in the subject with me. I have read them, but I want to be convinced, so as to be with the majority. I am loth to feel that all the learned men in the country are against me. I am willing to be convinced, but I want to be convinced. And I don't want to get signed down as one who is too obtuse to understand reasons that are positive. I have read the article in The Tri-Weekly Tribune of the 14th inst. about the new century, and I have read the article in The Tribune of the 16th, and I have read the article in The Tribune of the
